DAY 2 | MAIN DAY | September 20, 2017 | EXPLORING THE FUTURE

MAD Brussels (Place du Nouveau Marché aux Grains 10, 1000 Brussels)

Moderator: Saskia van Stein

Time	Agenda
9.30-10.00	Registration and Coffee
10.00-10.10	Introduction to the EU Design Days 2017 Saskia van Stein Director of Bureau Europa Bureau Europa is a platform for architecture, cultural discourse and design based in Maastricht, the Netherlands. As a presentation and network organisation, Bureau Europa presents exhibitions and other activities in the field of architecture, design, instable media and urbanism. The issues addressed in this institute relate to contemporary societal global urgencies and how these are addressed or expressed in the designed environment. More info: https://www.bureau-europa.nl/nl/
10.10-10.40	Keynote: Gijs Ockeloen Industrial Designer, Managing Partner and Co-Founder, Reframing Studio In his keynote "A new approach to health-care" Ockeloen will look at how the accelerating evolution of technology obsoletes current professions including Design and Architecture. If 'Smart cities and regions' is what we are after, we should not attempt to create them with the present professional approach, tools and mindset. Gijs will discuss how inevitable changes in current healthcare provision systems will be a major driver for change in the way we design our living environment. The driver may be technology, but the change will be socio-cultural. More info: http://www.reframingstudio.com/users/gijs-ockeloen
10.40-10.55	Game Changer: Janine Dasbeck* "Soilsensitive Agriculture" During her master thesis at the Muthesius Academy of Fine Arts in Kiel she explored potential solutions for sustainable agriculture. Her Soil Sensitive Tool shows a possible future for farmers by providing a tool that helps farmers to observe their soil in order to maintain high quality and improve the fertility of the soil.

4 Parallel Breakout Sessions
		Breakout 1	Breakout 2	Breakout 3	Breakout 4
14.55-16.10	“How can new meaning be given to vacant shops and neighbourhoods be revitalised by creativity?” Cité du Design Saint-Etienne, France – The potentiality of vacant shops Moderated by Josh Hart* Ici-Bientôt is a city experiment in Saint-Etienne, France, for the European project ‘Human Cities Challenging the City Scale’, led by Cité du Design. Its aim is to activate a street of the city center suffering from commercial vacancy. In this project, synergy is developed between actors (project holders, owners, associations, institutions) to find creative solutions and invent tomorrow’s lifestyles. A test case was conducted during the	“How to create a strong regional identity?” Marshall’s Office of the Lodzkie Region Poland – Rebuilding a regional identity Moderated by Tim Vermeulen The Lodzkie Region is an area with a relatively short history. There are even places which are still perceived as part of the former administrative division of the country. This is one of the reasons why it is very difficult to form one big cohesive region with proud inhabitants that are engaged with local issues. Regional authorities have been undertaking lots of initiatives and various communication tools aiming at rebuilding a regional identity. Besides, the Lodzkie Region wants to construct a positive image of	“How should an ecosystem for inclusive mobility services in the peripheries and megacities look like?” University of Lapland Finland – Ecosystem design for inclusive mobility services Moderated by Alok Nandi Urbanisation is one of the major millennial changes that create challenges, but also opportunities for creating services through smart ecosystems for the everyday life of citizens. One of the major fields is mobility because the needs, habits and expectations of people are changing both in the peripheral context in the arctic as well as in the megacities of the south. How to use service design to	“How to introduce modifications to citizens’ homes in a non-invasive way?” University of Southern Denmark Denmark – A hospital at home Moderated by Vera Winthagen* When elderly people return home from hospital with a need for extra care, the municipality will mostly need to reorganise their home to ensure a proper working environment for the care professionals. In such cases it may feel as if ‘the hospital moves in’ with equipment (such as a hospital bed) and extra requirements for work space. The process of introducing modifications to citizens’ homes

	Biennale Internationale Design in which 5 shops were tested with new activities and a rich programme of events. During this breakout session, questions will be posed such as: How to create a legacy out of this experiment? How is the situation in other countries and what kind of creative solutions have been implemented * Supported by Welsh Higher Education Brussels (WHEB)	the Lodzkie Region. In this break out session we want to explore how to conduct effective regional management and how to create a region with which the inhabitants like to identify.	create smart service ecosystems for mobility? Can artificial intelligence provide assistance and access to new forms of mobility for the citizens? How to map and create new service offerings based on empathy and human needs? These are the questions that stand central in this break out session.	can be conflictual as it may be experienced as a forced entry into the private sphere. In the 'Living Design Lab' project the municipalities of Haderslev, Kolding and Billund collaborate with University of Southern Denmark to develop solutions to core public challenges through public-private innovation. The breakout session is aimed at exploring how private actors can be engaged in innovative ways to mitigate the problems. * Supported by Eindhoven
16.10-16.25	Coffee Break
16.25-17.10	Wrap-up of Breakout Sessions and on-stage Feedback
